HOW OSHA DETERMINES WHETHER RETALIATION TOOK PLACE

- The investigation must reveal that:
- The employee engaged in protected activity;
- The employer knew about the protected activity;
- The employer took an adverse action; and
- The protected activity was the motivating factor (or under some laws, a contributing factor) in the decision to take the adverse action against the employee.

If the evidence supports the employee's allegation and a settlement cannot be reached, OSHA will issue an order requiring the employer to reinstate the employee, pay back wages, restore benefits, and other possible remedies to make the employee whole.

LIMITED PROTECTIONS FOR EMPLOYEES WHO REFUSE TO WORK

You have a limited right under the OSH Act to refuse to do a job because conditions are hazardous. You may do so under the OSH Act only when (1) you believe that you face death or serious injury (and the situation is so clearly hazardous that any reasonable person would believe the same thing); (2) you have tried to get your employer to correct the condition, and there is no other way to do the job safely; and (3) the situation is so urgent that you do not have time to eliminate the hazard through regulatory channels such as calling OSHA. Regardless of the unsafe condition, you are not protected if you simply walk off the job. For details, see <http://www.osha.gov/as/opa/worker/refuse.html>. OSHA cannot enforce union contracts or state laws that give employees the right to refuse to work.

WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTIONS IN THE TRANSPORTATION INDUSTRY

Employees whose jobs directly affect commercial motor vehicle safety are protected from retaliation by their employers for refusing to violate or for reporting violations of Department of Transportation (DOT) motor carrier safety standards or regulations, or refusing to operate a vehicle because of such violations or because they have a reasonable apprehension of death or serious injury.

Similarly, employees of air carriers, their contractors or subcontractors who raise safety concerns or report violations of FAA rules and regulations are protected from retaliation, as are employees of owners and operators of pipelines, their contractors and subcontractors who report violations of pipeline safety rules and regulations. Employees involved in international shipping who report unsafe shipping containers are also protected. In addition, employees of railroad carriers or public transportation agencies, their contractors or subcontractors who report safety or security conditions or violations of federal rules and regulations relating to railroad or public transportation safety or security are protected from retaliation.

WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTIONS FOR VOICING ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS

A number of laws protect employees who report violations of environmental laws related to drinking water and water pollution, toxic substances, solid waste disposal, air quality and air pollution, asbestos in schools, and hazardous waste disposal sites. The Energy Reorganization Act protects employees who raise safety concerns in the nuclear power industry and in nuclear medicine.

WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTIONS WHEN REPORTING CORPORATE FRAUD

Employees who work for publicly traded companies or companies required to file certain reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission are protected from retaliation for reporting alleged mail, wire, or bank fraud; violations of rules or regulations of the SEC, or federal laws relating to fraud against shareholders.
